TO WHOM IT MAY SOEVER CONCERN

Coldwell Banker Brad Realty is an international real estate company. We recognize the need to be flexible, entrepreneurial, and aggressive, both as individuals and as a company. As a residential realtor, I interact and meet with many people on a daily basis and hence felt the need for an upgrade in my wardrobe.

I asked Neha Mathur to help me by guiding me on what additions I should be making to my wardrobe in order to appear authentic as well as appropriate in my social and business circles. When we started our sessions, My only 2 requirements were that I like wearing different colors as well as that I did not want to wear dull, boring clothes. I was impressed with her step by step process on how she first understood what my requirements were and then made clothing suggestions based on my personal likes and dislikes as well as keeping my personality and the work

I do in mind. We went shopping to stores of my preference and I absolutely loved her attention to detail in the way she selected the garments for me to try. She did make me try on a few pieces that I would not have otherwise tried out by myself, she had warned me that she would try and push me out of my comfort zone and she did! She had even gone ahead of time and met with the store managers and told them my requirements so as to ensure that we got quality service and their best salespersons were attending to us.

Overall, I'd give a 100 on 100 to Neha Mathur for her professionalism, personal connect, attention to detail and the creative manner in which she combines the different colors together to form an impressive outfit. I would highly recommend The Missing Piece to everyone who is looking for an upgrade in their style and want to use clothing as a creative outlet.
